Governor's Inaugural

In response to an inquiry today Governor-elect Byrd stated that all arrangements of the inauguration on Monday, February 1, were in charge of the General Assembly. He would not, he said, send out invitations, but that all Virginians were invited and would receive a cordial welcome. In addition to the inaugural parade and ceremonies at noon, a public reception will be held at 9 o'clock that night at the Jefferson Hotel. No cards are necessary for the reception. In the receiving line will be Gov. and Mrs. Byrd, former Governor and Mrs. Trinkle, and other state officials, also Senator and Mrs. Swanson and Senator and Mrs. Glass.

The Marine Band, of seventy pieces, will play at the reception. This is the president's own and cannot leave Washington without his personal consent. It has rarely been sent out of Washington and is a nice compliment from a Republican President to a Democratic Governor.

The parade will be at least one mile long, practically without cost to the state. For the first time in the history of Virginia and possibly of the nation, the entire inaugural ceremonies will be broadcast without cost to the state, from station WRVA starting about noon. Governor Byrd will deliver his inaugural speech at 12:30, which will take about thirty-five minutes. He will speak, if the weather permits from the south portico of the capitol and by amplifiers, which have been installed, he will be heard by the thousands who will assemble in the capitol grounds.

Steamer for Norfolk

The steamship "Chatham" of the Merchants and Minors Transportation Company will be launched at Newport News, Virginia on February 3rd. The "Chatham" will be 368 feet in length, with gross tonnage displacement of approximately 7,000 tons, and is one of the Company's group of five new steamships. The "Alleghany" and the "Berkshire" are already in service, and the other two sister ships are scheduled to be launched before summer. The "Chatham" will accomodate 300 passengers. The Merchants and Miners Transportation Company operates steamships between Boston, Providence, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Savannah, Jacksonville and Miami.

Ugly Co-op Charges

A reply to the recent report of the federal trade commission regarding the redrying activities of officers of the Tobacco Growers' Co-operative Association will be made by the association through the medium of the Tri-State Grower, its official organ, the reply to appear in the February issue of the magazine, it is announced.

The directors of the association following a meeting held in Richmond last week, have issued a statement in which the redrying activities of General Manager Patterson and Warehouse Manager Watkins are fully approved by the board.

Oliver J. Sands, chairman of the board's executive committee stated that the association is now in a better financial condition than at any time in its history and pointed to the growing confidence of the banks and especially the Intermediate Credit bank in the condition and management of the association, as evidenced by loans which have enabled the association to pay the highest cash advances as yet distributed to its members.

The suit of Wiley Person, of Franklin county, N. C., calling for the dissolution of the association which was entered Tuesday is classed by Mr. Sands as a play for adverse publicity by the plaintiff.

The full statement issued by the board of directors in regard to the redrying activities of some of its officers is as follows:

"The board of directors of the Tobacco Growers' Co-operative Association has spent a day hearing detailed statements on the redrying situation with particular reference to the activities of General Manager Patterson and Warehouse Manager Watkins as co-partners in the Edmondson Tobacco Company, said statements covering items brought out in the report of the federal trade commission; and it has been made clear that the members of this board have in general approved of the prior policies of this board in permitting and encouraging our directors or officers or managers to engage in redrying activities in preference to placing such business with the enemies of co-operative marketing; and it has been made evident that the members of the board of directors with a few exceptions were not aware prior to June, 1923, that Managers Patterson and Watkins had an interest in the Edmondson redrying activities for the 1923 and 1924 crops, and this board here expresses its approval of such activities and reiterates the resolution adopted Aug. 18, 1925; and here states that it would have approved the said activities of 1922 had it known of them as being in accord with the general policies at that time, and that other employes and directors such as Mr. Williams and others were redrying tobacco for the association under standard contracts with the full knowledge and approval of the board generally, including all of the actual facts about the policy of not selling green tobacco to dealers and expressly including all the actual facts and evidence to show that the executive committee had good reasons to believe that there was, in the spring of 1923, a real attempt to raise the cost of redrying against this association, with full knowledge of all these facts the board approves of all such activities; states that the contract price and profits have been in line with similar competing companies and were proper in view of the hazard and the particular service; and further states that it does not see any good ground whatsoever for any claim of any kind against the persons involved in these transactions."—News Leader.

Now Mr. Farmer it is up to you to sustain or reject the action of your board of directors, who have exhonorated the officers of the association in the matter of rehandling tobacco.

The board says they would have done so had they known of the activities in redrying tobacco of these officers anyway. The matter will surely be brought squarely before membership and it should be by referendum and each member should be required to give a vote of confidence and affirmation, failing to receive such a vote of confidence and approval those members of the board of directors and all officers and salaried men engaged in personal pursuits of private gain should resignas officers of the association.

We have not before us the evidence and report of the Trade Commission, but as extracts published from the findings of the commission it is shown that two of the associations' highest paid officers Messrs. Patterson and Watkins made a profit of $130,134 72 from redrying associations' tobacco in addition to their salaries for the years 1922 and 1923 of $96,000 so in round figures these two officers received from the association treasury $235,134 72 Mr. Patterson's salary being $30,000 and Mr. Watkins $18,000 per year. It is to be presumed that a liberal allowance was also made for their expenses. Also the figures for 1924 and 1925 crops are not available. It is also shown that many other officers of the association are engaged in re-handling the associations' tobacco while drawing handsome salaries from the Co-ops treasury.

We must confess that we are doubtful if the association can ever recover its lost prestige with the present officers directing its affairs.

As soon as we can review the evidence and the full published report of the board of directors we will be ready to vote, and in the meantime let all Co-ops remember that mismanagement is no excuse for disloyalty or grounds for condeming the system of co-operation. Now is a good time to join.

Improved!

a Revelation in Low Priced Transportation

A type of performance never before approached in any low priced car —a new smoothness of operation—new flexibility—new swiftness of acceleration—new beauty—new comfort—these have been added to its already world-famous power and economy to make the Improved Chevrolet a revelation in low priced transportation.

Just take one ride in this remarkable car—and you will be amazed to find that qualities heretofore the chief advantages of owning costlier cars are now obtainable in a car of very low price.

The introduction of the Improved Chevrolet marks an outstanding achievement in the automobile industry.

Texas Lady Tells How She Got Rid of Her Troubles.

"The first time I took Cardui, I was in an awful bad way," says Mrs. Ora Carlile, R. F. D. 3, Troup, Texas.

"I was afflicted with awful smothering spells. My mother had some Cardui in the house that she was taking, so she immediately began giving it to me. In a few days I got all right.

"Last fall I got run-down in health. I was weak and poorly and I began to suffer with . . . I would get so I could hardly walk. Having taken Cardui before, I sent to the store for a bottle of it.

"Almost from the first dose I could feel the improvement. . . . I am much better now.

"Cardui has helped me a lot and I am glad to recommend it. I don't feel like the same woman I was last fall.

"My appetite is good now, and I'm sure it's Cardui that's made it pick up, for in the fall I had no relish for food at all, while now I'm hungry for my meals."

His subject in the morning will be "Seeing the Invisible," and his evening subject, "The New Man in Christ." Prof. Crawley will lead prayer sevice next Wednesday evening.

Tobacco growers are complaining of the low prices now prevailing for tobacco on the open market, while Co-ops are pointing to the stable prices obtained for all grades at their receiving station. Just why some growers will not help in establishing the prices of tobacco is past our understanding—Now is the time to rally under the banner of sound and sane co-operative marketing.

In last week's issue of the Times-Virginian was a full page of Lynchburg advertisements under the caption, "Tell us "Who's Who" in Lynchburg and Win $15 in Gold." The page was self explanatory. A number of our readers are endeavoring to win the cash prizes offered for the two best sets of answers. All answers should be in The Times-Virginian office by 4 p. m. Saturday, January 30. The answers to the advertisements will be printed next week and the names of the prize winners announced in the same issue if it be possible to do so.

History of Historical Appomattox County

There is being collected material for a history of Appomattox county. Everyone is requested to contribute any facts or traditions about the county and her citizens. The historians will use among others, the following materials: Biographies, autobiographies, photographs, snapshots, newspaper clippings, extracts from diaries, memoirs, etc. The history will consider religious, patriotic, economic, educational and other phases of the life of our important little county.

When enough facts and traditions have been collected to be used, a beautiful, interesting pageant will be given. The pageant will probably be staged at the Surrender Grounds, the plan being to give it national advertisement as it will be of county, state, and national interest.

Please send or give any historical records, facts, or traditions to Senator S. L. Ferguson, Hon. J. Rolfe Horsely, or Miss E. M. Burke. The local committee started work on this some years ago but circumstances over which they had no control caused them to have to lay it aside. Names of the committees, some who will probably be appointed from Washington and Richmond, will be published later.

The daughters and sons of Appomattox who have moved elsewhere are urged to contribute material Some of them have already expressed a willingness to contribute.

Co-ops Keep Up Prices

Dark-fired tobacco in Virginia this fall averaged $19.60 per hundred pounds in November and December. Dark-fired tobacco in Kentucky averaged $8.38 per hundred pounds in December the first month of active sales. Both figures are taken from report of the Departments of Agriculture in these states.

In Virginia the Tobacco Growers Co-operative Association has marketed a majority of the dark-fired tobacco of the State for the past three years, and its members are now steadily signing the contract for a new and larger association within their district.

In Kentucky, on the other-hand, the members of the Dark Tobacco Growers Co-operative Association decided to dump the present crop on the auction markets. The immediate result was an-average of $9.38 per hundred in their first month of sales a difference of more than ten cents a pound from the price received by the growers of dark-fired tobacco in Virginia during the proceeding month and a difference of more than eight cents a pound during the month of December.

Commenting on the situation as it affects the tobacco growers of his State, Commissioner of Agriculture G. L. Morris, of Tennessee in a statement issued January 13, makes the following declaration:

"Contrary to expectation, prices have shown no real advancement. This is very disappointing to growers, and there is much discontent in the dark-fired area. In many instances, sales have been made at less than the advancement under association prices, and rejections before the holidays are going for even less than first sales. States that grow similar tobacco are wondering why the decline here. There are two answers,—first, too much dark-fired; second, the lack of a stabilizing influence through co-operation."

Delegates from Kentucky at the National Council of Co-operative Marketing Associations, stated last week in Washington that there appears to be no doubt that the Kentucky tobacco farmers have learned a bitter lesson by their failure to support their marketing association and that growers who had never been members of the association are now taking the lead in the plans for a new sign-up.—Frissell."
